

I can't think of a worse decision. I travel quite frequently and I use my cell phone when I have an urgent message. That's it. In return I have to listen to hundreds of others who treat the airport gate like their personal offices. I breathe a sigh of relief when the flight attendant finally announces that all cell phones must be stored. Why not have wireless internet service instead. This way people can conduct their business without disturbing all the other people around them who paid a lot of money to be there!
